Summary of the project

LLI-258

VIDEOGUARD seeks to tackle the challenges of crime prevention in the cross-border region of Kurzeme and North-Lithuania. One of the main issues is a lack of capacity in technical solutions for available equipment, while legal and administrative cooperation across the border among law enforcement institutions are also lacking. The project aims to overcome this by installing advanced video surveillance equipment in combination with contemporary software for data exchange. This will improve technical capacities for institutions to exchange information more quickly. 17 municipalities in North Lithuania and Kurzeme will participate, whereas the cooperation system will also include the State Police. The direct effect of this project will be that crime prevention will become more effective due to closer cooperation and communication between partners on both sides of the border.
